

Information and Consent Form for Patients Attending Physiotherapy

Physiotherapy, by its nature, involves close contact between Physiotherapist and patients. A consultation involves you answering detailed questions about the site, severity, and nature of your complaint, as well as questions covering how it began, the possible cause, its present 24-hour behaviour and any past problems which may be relevant.

A physical examination or assessment will follow, which will involve undressing the relevant area. Appropriate undergarments should be worn, but towels to preserve your modesty are available, so please ask if you feel you require them. You may wish to have a partner or friend with you during the examination and treatment, and this is perfectly acceptable.

The examination is carried out to include unrelated problems and clarify your complaint, so that clinical diagnosis and treatment options can be considered. This may continue each visit, as problems often change in site, irritability, and nature from treatment to treatment. Treatment options will always be discussed with you, as your agreement and co-operation are necessary at each stage.

Although manipulation and examination manoeuvres may be regarded as quite normal by Physiotherapists, if you feel anxious or are concerned about them, please feel free to ask for an explanation or to say "stop" if you are unhappy with anything.

Please wear appropriate attire for your physiotherapy session that is easy for all limbs to move in, such as shorts and t-shirt.

As Mobility Physiotherapy Limited has fully booked clinics and domiciliary visits, there is a CANCELLATION CHARGE OF UP TO 100% OF THE FEE for appointments that are NOT cancelled or rescheduled with at least 48 HOURS notice given. If you use private medical insurance, the charge will fall to yourself in accordance with your policy.

Should you arrive late for your appointment, your physiotherapist will only be able to see you for the remainder of the booked time of your session. This is as a courtesy to the next patient booked.
